Title: Report: More than 100 Arizona charter schools are in danger of closing

People Involved: GCI, Eddie Farnsworth, Kate Brophy McGee, and Arizona Education Association

Summary:

More than 100 charter school are closing because there are not enough enrollments, debt, and bad financial management. These school were losing about $400 per student. A study shows that the school were allowed to borrow money for new construction projects, but students were not happy about that. In September, State Representative sold charter schools and earned 14 million in profit.
